

LAMDA Lessons

LAMDA (London Academy of Music and Dramatic Art) is one of the national Drama Schools and it offers external examinations in a variety of disciplines including Acting, Public Speaking and Verse and Prose. Examinations are held at least once a year with an external examiner through progression of grades and medals for which certificates are awarded. Exams can be taken from introductory grade up to gold medal (grade 8). LAMDA lessons can be taken by students in year 1 through to year 13.

The cost of a 30-minute lesson is £220 per term for 10 lessons, £170 (each) for a paired lesson and £150 (each) for a group lesson.

If you would like your child to participate in LAMDA lessons, please complete the online form below and return it as soon as possible. This also applies to Drama Scholars.

By returning the form for LAMDA lessons, parents agree to pay the fees, as published by the school, in advance to the teacher, no later than the first lesson of each term. The teacher will teach thirty lessons in the academic year but may teach more (or less) than ten lessons in any one term. If the teacher misses any lessons, these will be made up, or refunded if they are unable to teach thirty lessons in the year. The teacher is not obliged to make up lessons missed by the student but will do so if possible.

The course of the students' studies, including repertoire, public performances and entry for all examinations and competitions, always remains under the teacher's professional direction, in consultation with the parent where appropriate. Lessons up to and including Year 9 are delivered on a rotational basis throughout the school day.

If a parent wishes lessons to stop, they must give a full term's notice in writing, addressed to the teacher and ltoms@seaford.org. If a parent gives less than a term's notice, they will be required to make a payment to the teacher of a full term's fees in lieu of notice.
